OUR OWN LIME CULTIVATION IN BAHIA, BRAZIL

In 2018, Torres Tropical started a project to initiate an eco-friendly production of limes.

As most of the “lime production” in Brazil requires chemicals and post-harvest substances, we are lowering the use of chemicals to close to zero. By not using any post-harvest treatments, we are able to market our Limes as “Untreated”.

The past two years, we have been working hard to get a good infrastructure, from cultivation to working conditions. A new project is starting that includes the building of extra facilities in order to improve the infrastructure, and will be ready by the end of 2020. In the meantime new trees have also been planted.
